HEAVY FINES ARE LEVIED IN WAR ON ILLEGAL HUNTERS

War on illegal hunting and fishing in San Mateo county has been declared by Game Warden Jack Burke of Daly City. As the result of his recent activities more than fourteen violators have been arrested and fines totaling more than $275 have been collected by Justices of the Peace Ellis C. Johnson of Daly City and Ray Griffin of Redwood City.

The greatest offense has been hunting without licenses. George Lemperopulos, Burlingame realtor, was fined $25 by Judge Johnson for hunting rabbits out of season. He was arrested on the Skyline boulevard. Six rabbits, a .30-.30 rifle, a small caliber rifle and a shotgun were found in his automobile, according to Game Warden Burke.

August Currati, San Francisco fisherman, drew the largest fine. He paid into Judge Johnson's court the sum of $100 for fishing in San Francisco bay for striped bass with a set net. The net was confiscated by the judge.

For catching trout out of season, Harold and Richard Bishop, both of San Francisco, paid fines of $25 each. The men attempted to get the jump on theother fishermen, only to find themselves in the path of Burke. They will probably not attempt such action again.

Violation of the hunting license act cost Rafael Polmi, Galliane Mosabota and Gioanni Rachioni, all of San Francisco, $25 each. Caesar Frambrino and Julio Ruggiero, both of San Francisco, drew $10 fines for similar offenses.

Similar charges are pending against August Chesa, August Currati, A. Coruccini and Joe De Nardo. Currati is the luckless fisherman who paid the $100 fine to Judge Johnson on the fish net violation.

"If violations of these types continue, San Mateo county will soon be deprived of its game life," Game Warden Burke declares. "Game is gradually becoming extinct under the depredations of just such men. More than twenty-five does and fawns were shot in this county this year, while song birds are being trapped by these law violators. Only a concentrated drive by sportsmen can bring these violations to a minimum."

SUNDAY SERVICES AT GRACE PRESBYTERIAN

We are here to serve and help all. There is today but one way for the Christian to walk and talk and live. That is Christ's way. And anything less than this will be compromise and sin. The Holy Book says to us that He is the Life, the Truth and the Way, and the standard has been set and we dare not pull down our colors.

The theme for next Sabbath evening at Grace Presbyterian church will be, "Eating—The Great Problem of the World." Today many are overfed and dying with indigestion and other causes brought on by the rich food, and others are being forced to live so sparingly that many times the faces show signs of the undernourishment. Why could not the supply be more evenly divided? We aim to keep from the spectacular, but do want to tell the truth. Come and help us.

Miss Sybil Riddell, the president of the C. E. Society of the church, spent last Sabbath and Monday at the great conference for the San Francisco Endeavors, at Mt. Hermon, coming home full of the speldid helps brought out in the conference, and we invite you to come next Sabbath evening and hear her report.

CHAS. H. GATCHELL, Minister.

REDWOOD CITY BANKER DIES

John P. Weller, widely known San Mateo county resident and vice-president of the Redwood City branch of the Bank of Italy, died Monday night at his home in Redwood City, after a brief illness. He was 69 years of age.

A native of Wisconsin, Weller had lived in Redwood City sixteen years. Previous to that time he had served for a time as postmaster of San Mateo. Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Josephine E. Weller, and a daughter, Mrs. Ruth K. Gugeo.

NEW ENTERPRISE OPENS

A ladies' and children's coat factory has been opened at 5348 Mission street, where you can have the very latest coats tailor made by expert tailors. Mr. J. C. Phillips, manager of the concern, who recently arrived from Los Angeles, realized the opportunity for his line of business in this district and finally located here. All ladies' and children's coats are made on the premises and a guaranteed fit is assured at less than down town prices.

LABOR DAY SERMON BY LOCAL PASTOR

Following is the Labor Day sermon delivered by Father James Donohoe, pastor of St. Maximus church, his text being: "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His justice and all these things shall be added unto you."

At no time in the history of the church has there been greater need for this doctrine of teaching of our Lord than at present. The many inventions and discoveries of science, together with the vast increase of the world wealth, have placed within the reach of millions a life of ease and luxury undreamed of in the past. If we would know the ruinous results that follow when men in general give themselves up to the worship of Mammon, let us look for a moment at the condition of the world in the days of Christ.

Unlimited wealth invariably leads to sensuality and its ever present companions, rapine and cruelty. Inhuman slavery was the life lot of the majority of mankind. Crimes so gross and unnatural that mention of them is forbidden Christians, were the characteristics of even the teachers of the day. In the Epistle of today St. Paul by inference gives a picture of those times when he tells us that the works of the flesh are uncleanness, immodesty, idolatry, murders, drunkenness, and such like.

Many times our Lord has warned us against the evils of material wealth. "It is easier," He said, "for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of Heaven." The parable of the Rich Man and Lazarus is another warning against the spirit of Mammon. Because of his wealth, the rich young man rejected a vocation to the priesthood given him by our Lord in person. So obvious and so constant has been the evil effects of vast wealth upon not only the individual but society in general, that even profane writers have warned men of it:

"Ill fares the land to weakening ills a prey
When wealth accumulates and men decay."

So insidious is this evil of the love of wealth that even those possessing but a small share of this world's goods may, through it, lose their souls. In His Sermon on the Mount, from which today's Gospel is taken, our Lord showed the spirit with which His followers should be imbued, and the means on which they should rely that they might be worthy citizens of His kingdom on earth and successful competitors for the reward of heaven. He warned His followers against human respect and the seeking for the praise of men. There is a greater danger to men's salvation than the desire for human applause, and that is the inordinate love of riches, or especially an engrossing solicitude for temporal possessions.

"Be not solicitous for your life what you shall eat, or for your body what you shall put on." The solicitude our Lord speaks of is that anxious mistrusting, fretful worry that is in a Christian an insult to the mercy and providence of God. Work is the lot of all creatures in accordance with the designs of God. Our Lord wishes to teach us that when we are by the labor of our hands fulfilling His plans for our existence, He will remember us and suuply to us our wants for time and eternity. "Behold," He tells us, "the birds of the air, your Heavenly Father feeds them, and are not you of much more value than they?" How seldom do men think of the great value that is theirs in the sight of God! We are the masterpieces of His creative will, lords of the creation, and fashioned after His own image and likeness, the great source of His worship after the angels, redeemed by the precious blood of His Divine Son. Can we ever doubt the protective care He must ever have over us, fulfilling our every need? He is like the kind father of erring children in His mercy and wisdom keeping from us those things that are not for our good.

How unreasonable, even from a human standpoint, is this ever present fretting and discontent, this eager care and solicitude for the fleeting things of time! All the worry, all the rebelling against God's omnipotence gains us nothing of ease or security. Well has our Lord brought the truth of this to our minds in today's Gospel when He says: "Which of you by taking thought can add to his stature one cubit?" The greatest care and forethought, without God, cannot add an inch to our stature or a day to our span of life. How much less can we with certainty procure the needs of the future? True it is we must provide for these times—in health, for sickness; in youth, for age; in life, for death; but ever with an inward trust in God and a detachment from these things that we, and not they, are the masters of our lives.

Admission Day

Today Admission Day is being celebrated at Santa Cruz, that city having been selected by the Native Sons of the Gloden West as the place for the celebration of the seventy-seventh anniversary of the admission of California into the Family of the Nation.

And September 9, in California, is Admission Day, decreed by an act of state legislature a compulsory legal holiday, when all public schools and all offices under state jurisdiction must close. It is one day in the year when, out of respect to the American pioneers who made the California of today possible, every place of business should be closed, and every building adorned with the flag of the United States and the California State (Bear) flag.

Admission Day is an American holiday, marking an important milestone in California's progress toward the goal of becoming one of these United States. In its true observance, the accomplishments of the American pioneer only must be featured. Historically, it is to California what Independence Day is to the whole United States.

Admission Day, contrary to the belief which apparently exists in some quarters, has no connection whatever with either the Spanish or the Mexican eras of California history. Each has its proud place in California's Sun of Glory, but Admission Day is associated with neither, belonging exclusively to the American era.

Because California, the thirty-first state, pursued a different course to get into the Family of the Nation than did any other state—by demanding admittance without territorial childhood, after a state government had been organized—Admission Day, September 9, has been perpetuated.

The Californa that shoud be honored on Admisison Day, the American California, had its beginning in the town of Sonoma, in Sonoma county, where, on the 14th day of June, 1846, a small band of Americans, known as the Bear Flag Party, raised the flag of the "California Republic"—later known as the Bear flag and designated as the State flag of California by the legislature—and proclaimed the end of Mexican rule in California. Spanish domination had previously been cast aside by the Mexicans.

The news of Californa's admission to statehood reached San Francisco on October 18, nearly six weeks after the National Congress had acted, by the mail steamer Oregon, there being no communication by rail or wire in those days between the East and the West.

Ever since the first formal celebration in San Francisco, Admission Day, September 9, has been observed as a day of rejoicing, but not until 1888 was the day declared a legal holiday by the state legislature. The Order of Native Sons of the Golden West had come into prominence and strength by that time, and had been holding general celebrations of the day. With few exceptions, the day has, since 1881, been the occasion of a general celebration every year under the auspices of the order, which at its annual Grand Parlor names the place of celebration.

The first observance of Admission Day by the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West was in San Francisco, in 1875, less than two months after the order started on its career, July 11, 1875.

ENJOY MOTOR TRIP TO VANCOUVER, B. C.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Bennett and family, accompanied by Mr. Eimar Hanson, spent a most delightful three weeks' vacation by motoring to Vancouver, British Columbia. Leaving Sunday morning, they traveled via the Berkeley ferry to Vallejo, across the new Carquinez bridge on to Fairview, where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Stanley McClintic, who were surprised and overjoyed to see them. Going on to Sheridan, they spent the night at the Bennett ranch. Next morning they started early, but were held up in Chico for a day, on account of the breaking of a pinion gear. It was 4:30 before they left Chico, but they made Castella and stayed there that night. Tuesday they made Corvallis, after a most delightful and wonderful day through the mountains, which revived memories of the Highlands of Scotland. The weather was ideal and the children drank lots of water, so by the time they reached Seattle, Wednesday night, they were sick, and did not feel like staying another day, as they had planned, but left on Thursday morning to finish their journey.

Passing through the Canadian customs satisfactorily, they reached Vancouver at 3 p. m., and were heartily welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. Alex Bennet and her sister, Miss Davis. They visited all points of interest around Vancouver, including Stanley Park, the Green Snake and the Capilano suspension bridge, which is 400 feet in length and 200 feet high; English Bay, where the children enjoyed bathing.

After spending ten days in Vancouver and vicinity, they left Monday morning on the return trip, visiting in Seattle with Mr. and Mrs. Leonard McKee and Mr. and Mrs. J. Federspiel. Mrs. Federspiel had made arrangements for them to stay the week, but time was limited as the children had to get back for school opening, so they made Kelso that night. On Tuesday they had another enjoyable trip through the state of Oregon, staying at Ashland that night. Wednesday found them back at the ranch in Sheridan. They left Thursday morning by way of Napa, to Sebastopol, where they spent the night at the ranch of Mr. and Mrs. Burness. Going to Novato Friday morning they visited Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie on their ranch, returning home Friday night. Coming all the way from Vancouver without even a flat tire made up for the inconvenience they suffered in Chico and two flat tires on their way to Vancouver.

Eagles Plan Another Picnic

On Sunday, September 25, Colma-Vista Grande Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, will hold an outing at Stevens Creek. The last outing held several months ago was so successful that the coming event was planned. The Aerie is planning another big membership drive and hope to have an enrollment of 500 before the end of the year. A giant class initiation will be held on October 6 in Eagles Hall for the new candidates.

AUTO MECHANICS CLASS GROWING

The following announcement was made this week by Principal James Ferguson of the local high school:

"The enrollment in the auto mechanics class, which is being held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings of every week at the Jefferson Union high school, is steadily growing. There is still room for a few men who are interested in automobile repairing and general construction.

'The purpose of this course is two fold: First, to teach a boy the trade of auto machanics; and secondly to enable anyone to acquire a knowledge of general repair and the making of adjustments, so that he will be able to take proper care of his own car. The teacher in charge, Mr. Claude Hackley, is a master mechanic in the automobile industry. He has spent ten years in practical garage work and knows the trade from the ground up. Besides he has had professional training at the University of California that fits him particularly for the work of instruction.

"Mr. Hackley is particularly interested in young men who desire to fit themselves for better positions in the business and industrial world.

"The class will meet again next Tuesday night, and anyone who desires to enroll will be welcome at that time."

SURPRISE SHOWER GIVEN TO MISS GRACE JOHNSTON

It was not the fog, it was just a shower given to Grace, September 1st on the eighth hour. Five ninety-eight Evergreen was the place, where we all assembled to give a surprise to Grace. Miss Tessie O'Connor acted as hostess at the shower, which she gave at her home to her school chum and pal. The home was artistically decorated in pink and white. Mr. Joe Nostri sent a beautiful assortment of pink and white roses and ferns for the decorations. The evening was spent in dancing, singing and many of the latest games, which caused much amusement. At midnight a delicious supper was served. Miss Grace, the guest of honor, received many beautiful gifts from her friends. Among those present were: Flossie McKendrick, Marge Varni, Lorraine Wall, Marge O'Connor, Cora Gaspardone, Audrey Diamond, Sally Harlmolo, Francis Sims, Milly Johnson, Vera Bobletta, Louise Segale, Enda Phelan, Margie Pettigrew, Louise Hagney, Elsie Levin, Callista Dalton, Sarah Battani, Bobbie Hagerty, Isabel McKenna, Sylvia Fischer, Christine Hume, Ruby O'Connor, Alma Ward, Thelma Selmi, Elsie Klaum, Annette Lucey, Joey McDonnell, Ernie Klaum, Loretta Loren, Mrs. Helena O' Connor, Miss Grace Johnston, the guest of honor, and Miss Tessie O'Connor, the hostess.

Kyne's Latest Book at City Library

Peter B. Kyne's latest book, "They Also Serve," a war story, is now ready for circulation at the John D. Daly library.

SUPERVISORS VOTE TAX RATE INCREASE

An increase of 2 cents in the San Mateo county tax rate for 1927-1928 was voted by the supervisors at their meeting at Redwood City last Tuesday. The rate for the forthcoming year will be $2.98 for property outside city limits and $2.48 for property within cities, in addition to special taxes including grammar school and high school bonds. Divided, the taxes are as follows:

|---|---|
| General | $ .31 |
| School | .59 |
| Salary | .35 |
| Relief home | .05 |
| Social service | .14 |
| Community Hospital | .113 |
| New relief home | .246 |
| Road, regular | .40 |
| Road, special | .10 |
| Court house, 1906 | .012 |
| Court house furnishings | .002 |
| County highway, 1913 | ..117 |
| County highway maintenance | .05 |
| County high school maintenance | .38 |
| Junior College maintenance | .03 |
| Advertising | .02 |
| Phelps street extension | .03 |
| County free library | .04 |

The valuation of San Mateo county was fixed in excess of $43,000,000, according to Auditor J. J. Shields.

Immediately after the tax rate was fixed, the salary of Roscoe D. Wyatt, secretary of the San Mateo County Chamber of Commerce, was raised from $3,000 to $4,000 a year, on the motion of Supervisor Rosalie Brown. An interne was also provided for the Community hospital at Beresford at a salary of $100 a month, and Dr. A. L. Offield was given authority to appoint the interne.

Awarding of the contract for paving of the coastside roadway from Granada to Princeton was postponed one week in order to investigate several changes requested by residents. The two lowest bidders, Western Paving Company with a bid of $21,825, and Christian & Biagini, with a bid of $21,697.50, had their bids held over.

Contract for the construction of the superintendent's home at the county relief farm was awarded Roy Lind, with a bid of $7,143.

SPECIAL PROGRAM AT METHODIST CHURCH

This beautiful prayer was written by Mrs. Sarah A. Grover when she had reached the age of ninety. It appeared recently in the California Christian Advocate, and is well worth remembering:

The Great Eternal God on high
In mercy stoops to hear our cry.
His promise all may freely claim:
Ask and receive in Jesus' name!
Thy blessed Presence, Saviour, give
That we with Thee may ever live.
Help us to watch and strive and pray,
To be kept pure and clean each day.
When girded in the armor bright,
We, like true soldiers then will fight
The battle of the Lord to win,
To free us from the power of sin.
And when our work on earth is done,
May we hear Thy voice as we reach the Vale,
Thou child of the King, thou didst prevail.

This will be the last Sunday before conference. On Wednesday of next week the pastor will leave for the California conference, which will meet at Sacramento. This conference meets once a year and determines the appointments for the next year. As far as the pastor knows at the present time, he will return to the Daly City church following the conference.

Mr. Jack Sanderson will play a special number for us on Sunday evening, and Mrs. Bennett will give us a solo. The evening congregations have been excellent. If they continue to grow we will have to open up the League rooms to accommodate the crowd.

The morning service has been a real inspiration, and although it is not as well attended as the evening service, yet it is expected that before long the morning service will surpass the evening service.

I wish to take this opportunity, as pastor of the Daly City Methodist Episcopal church, to thank all those folks that helped to make this year a successful one. We have worked at times under a handicap, but through it all we have been able to bring one of the best reports of many months to the conference. We are now at the dawn of a new church year. It is up to us, in the name of Christ, to move forward, and win souls for Him. We can do it if we pull together.

The Friendly Indians will meet on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, instead of Wednesday. Every boy from 9 to 12 is invited to become a member. Plans were made to have a bean feed and fun hour on Thursday, September 22. There is always something doing at the Friendly Indian camp.

ELLIOTT L. FISHER, Minister.

COURT DIRECTS BOARD TO ACT ON REDISTRICT PLAN

The first round in the four year fight to redistrict San Mateo county supervisorial townships according to population was won last week by a group of Burlingame citizens headed by Frederick Peterson and Attorney John F. Davis.

An alternate writ of mandate ordering the supervisors to redistrict the county was issued by Superior Judge J. R. Welch of Santa Clara county, who had been assigned to preside at the hearing. The writ is returnable September 19, at which time the supervisors must appear before Judge Welch in event they fail to carry out the court's order.

The writ was served on District Attorney Franklin Swart by Peterson and Davis. He accepted service and will place the order before the supervisors.

The first steps to have the county redistricted was started four years ago by Peterson, Davis and other Burlingame citizens. At that time the supervisors denied the plea. The fight was then taken into court. Petition for an alternate writ of mandate was filed with Superior Judge George H. Buck. He denied the petition without prejudice, recommending that the men take the petition before a higher court after certain changes were made in it. The appeal was taken to the appellate court of the Second district. Judge John F. Tyler presided at the hearing and decided that the petition had merits. He then referred it to the law council, where it was assigned to Judge Welch of Santa Clara county for further hearing.

Inequality of representation is the basis of the plea for redistricting. It is pointed out by the advocates of the redistricting plan that the First, Second and Third townships have a registration of more than 22,000 voters, while the Fourth and Fifth townships have a registration of but 1,100.

It is asked that the supervisors redistrict the county according to registration and that there be an equal number of voters in each township.

DALY CITY LIONS TO DANCE SEPTEMBER 17

Visualize Lion characteristics, get acquainted with the why and wherefor of banding together in mutuality and understanding to the betterment of the community through local Lionism. Isn't it a wonderful idea, a forward movement, to see men willing to cooperate and clarify problems of their community? This is the sole cause of our own Daly City Lions Club. The effect must naturally be good, wholesome and beneficial to all—because that is what Lionism stands for. In short, Lionism recognizes "Live and let live."

The Daly City Lions are duty bound to support all forms of civic improvement.

They aim to introduce Lionism through their community dance, to be held Saturday evening, September 17, at 8:30, at the Daly City Auditorium. Every Lion is pledged to see that this dance is a success, which is based on the fact that a good time is in store for all. Their efforts will be more than compensated if they can hear it said that the Lions know how.

Now wouldn't it be fine if:

1. That Daly City had a children's playground.
2. That the community knew what the Daly City Boy Scouts are doing.
3. That Daly City had an arch, "Welcome to Daly City."
4. That Daly City could have an emergency hospital.
5. That Daly City could have a clinic.

These are merely suggestions, but remember that all happenings nucleate first, through thought; secondly through action; thirdly, effort; and fourthly, actual results; i. e. cause and effect.

ENJOYS SPLENDID OUTING

Mrs. Lombard, of Ye Novelty Shoppe, has returned from Orland, Glenn county, where she spent a very enjoyable two weeks vacation on the ranch owned by Mr. and Mrs. Soubra, friends of Mrs. Lombard. Along with Mrs. Lombard was baby Kenneth Fellows, who also greatly enjoyed his stay in the country. Horace Fellows and H. H. Smith spent several days out on a hunting trip and on their journey home came by the way of Orland and spent several days on the ranch with Mrs. Lombard. The two deer hunters were extremely disappointed at being unable to procure a deer after scouring the country over, but it is said they compromised by catching some fish. They all returned to Daly City expressing themselves as having had a wonderful time. During Mrs. Lombard's absence, the Novelty Shoppe was taken care of by Mrs. Fellows.

Well-meaning friends are as busy picking new jobs for President Coolidge as British ladies are selecting brides for the Prince of Wales. Two suggestions are: President of Amherst; chairman of U. S. Steel to succeed the late Judge Gary.

Fifteen members of the Grandfathers' Club of Littlehampton England, whose ages total 1,200 years, are enjoying a summer camp together.

SMITH did on the 26th day of November, 1926, record in the office of the Recorder of the County of San Mateo, State of California, a notice of the breach of the provisions of said note and said deed of trust and of the election of said H. H. SMITH to sell or cause to be sold the real property described and set forth in said deed of trust and hereinafter described, to satisfy the obligations evidenced by said promissory note and|or said deed of trust, and secured by said deed of trust

WHEREAS, said H. H. SMITH, did, on the 26th day of November, 1926, record in the office of the Recorder of the County of San Mateo, State of California, in Volume 272 of Official Records, at page 282 thereof, San Mateo County Records, a substitution of trustee under said deed of trust, appointing CALIFORNIA PACIFIC TITLE INSURANCE COMPANY, a corporation, as trustee in the place and in stead of and as successor to the said TITLE INSURANCE AND GUARANTY COMPANY in said deed of trust hereinabove referred to, thereby conveying unto said new trustee all the powers and duties of its said predecessor;

WHEREAS, subsequent to the substitution of trustee as aforesaid, the CALIFORNIA PACIFIC TITLE INSURANCE COMPANY changed its name to CALIFORNIA PACIFIC TITLE & TRUST COMPANY, and ever since has been and now is so entitled, and

WHEREAS, said H. H. SMITH did heretofore advise in writing the undersigned CALIFORNIA PACIFIC TITLE & TRUST COMPANY, as trustee under said deed of trust, that at the time of and prior to the recordation of said notice of breach, a default had been made and was existing in the payment of the principal and interest of said promissory note aforesaid, and that he had, on the 26th day of November, 1926, recorded the aforesaid notice of said breach and also of his election to cause the property described in said notice to be sold, and did demand that the undersigned, as such trustee under the power and authority conferred upon it by said deed of trust, to sell the property described in said deed of trust, and hereinafter described to satisfy the indebtedness evidenced by said promissory note and secured by said deed of trust.

NOW, THEREFORE, said CALIFORNIA PACIFIC TITLE & TRUST COMPANY, in accordance with the terms and under the authority of said deed of trust, after due recordation of the aforesaid notice and upon the demand of the said H. H. SMITH duly made as aforesaid, does hereby give notice that on Thursday, the 29th day of September, 1927, at the hour of 10:00 a. m. of said day, at the main entrance of the County Court House in the County of San Mateo, State of California, it will sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash in lawful money of the United States of America, all that certain lot, piece or parcel of land situate, lying and being in the County of San Mateo, State of California, described as follows, to-wit:

Lot No. 1 in Block No. 12 as shown on that certain map entitled, "Map of Hillcrest showing Subdivision" filed in the office of the County Recorder of San Mateo County, March 14, 1907, in Book 14 of Miscellaneous Records at page 232, more particularly described as follows:

BEGINNING at the point of intersection of the southwesterly line of Hillcrest Drive with the northwesterly line of San Diego Avenue, thence along said southwesterly line of Hillcrest Drive N. 79 degrees 19½ minutes West 25 feet, thence S. 10 degrees 40½ minutes W. 100 feet, thence S. 79 degrees 19½ minutes E. 25 feet to said northwesterly line of San Diego Avenue, thence along said northwesterly line of San Diego Avenue N. 10 degrees 40½ minutes E. 100 feet to the point of beginning.

TERMS OF SALE

The above described parcel of land will be sold for cash in lawful money of the United States of America, ten per cent (10%) payable to the undersigned at the fall of the hammer, balance upon delivery of deed and if not so paid, then the said ten per cent (10%) to be forfeited and sale to be void instruments of conveyance and revenue stamps at purchaser's expense; taxes for the fiscal year 1927-1928 to be borne by the purchaser.

THE ART OF BEING KIND

Here is something we often forget, told in meter by a stray verse. On the telephone the "smile" registers as readily as face to face, even if unseen:

A voice across the telephone
Can make or mar the day.
Be careful of the tone you use,
And think of what you say.
Your pleasant smile may not be seen,
Or known your kindly heart,
For people at the telephone
Are often miles apart.
Then sow a "smile" and reap a "smile,"
And in the end you'll find
That nothing pays more interest
Than the art of being kind.

BANK OF ITALY'S SUNDAY OUTING

A Sunday outing that will draw merrymakers from a third of California and that is being advertised as about the biggest thing of its kind in the history of the United States, is being planned by the Bankitaly Club, made up of workers in the Bank of Italy, for the Belle Monti Country Club on September 18.

The workers in seventy-five of the branch banks of the great system of the Bank of Italy, together with their families and friends, will make up the guest list. Covers will be laid around the berbecue pits for more than 1,000, while the hundreds of children who are expected will be given five acres, all to themselves, to play in.

Preparations for the great outing have been under way for weeks. Special buildings are being erected on the five acres set aside for the children for games and pastimes. The little ones will have their own barbecue pit, and a particularly attractive feature will be a model yacht pool, for their own, exclusive use. These grounds are being laid out by Blanding Sloan of San Francisco.

Golf, tennis, dancing, feating, trapshooting and general jollification will be the order of the day. There will be hundreds of the prettiest girls in California present, all wearing their happiest smile.

The fine new clubhouse of the Belle Monti Country Club will be thrown open to the picnic guests. Prizes will be awarded for the half dozen tournaments that are being planned, and there will be prizes for the children as well.

The merrymakers will have 350 acres of some of the most attractive rolling land in California to disport themselves in, and it will all be used. A de luxe feature will be an information desk where the picnic guests will be directed to the various tournaments and other attractions. A doctor will be in attendance and there will be first aid kits placed at strategic points to take care of the minor sprains, charley horses, glass arms and anything that may develop, including golf tempers and indigestion.

One of the bank's statisticians has figured that it will take half a ton of barbecued New York cuts, sixty and three-quarters gallons of ice cream, enough French rolls to reach from Daly City to Half Moon Bay if placed end to end, seven bushels of golf balls and a clothes basket full of toothpicks to accommodate the great throng. An extra dividend will be declared on all first helpings at the barbecue pits, while the auditing department will be on hand to expert the golf cards.

The workers, families and friends of the bank's branches in Alameda, Berkeley, Burlingame, Colma, Daly City, Fairfax, Gilroy, Half Moon Bay, Hayward, Hollister, Mill Valley, Morgan Hill, Mountain View, Palo Alto, Redwood City, San Anselmo, San Jose, San Bruno, San Juan Bautista, San Leandro San Mateo, San Rafael, Sausalito, Santa Clara, South San Francisco, Sunnyvale, San Francisco, Oakland, Elmhurst, Fruitvale and Melrose will be present.

The Bancitaly Corporation, which has the honor of being the world's very biggest investment trust company, will send a big delegation. This is presided over by A. P. Giannini, founder of both the bank and the corporation, his sons L. M. and Virgil Giannini and other of the city's financial notables. William Spratt, manager of the Polk-Van Ness branch of the bank and president of the Banitaly Club, Miss Dorothy Ferguson, the bank's librarian, Miss Margaret Dailey, assistant manager of the women's department, and Miss M. Musgrove are among the bank leaders who are assisting in the picnic plans.

The Belle Monti Club is two miles out of Belmont and about midway between San Francisco and San Jose.

SONG OF THE POETS

Wesley Strong to George Sterling

Oh, how sad the poet's song,
Who sings of Life and Death.
It comes, as mist comes into Night,
To haunt and win his breath.

How dangerous is sung or heard
The song his lips do speak—
For might he go in Life too far,
And into Death too deep.

Sing a song of birds or flowers,
The wild wood or the dove,
A dreamy babe on a mother's breast
As she hums her song of love.

Or the wild-wood strand where
Runs the stream, and lost
In a flood of paradise,
Free from debt, oh Life, gently
tost.

For years theatre goers have enjoyed "Monte Cristo." Now they may witness a splendid movie presentation of "Monte Cristo," that feature picture having been booked for the State Theatre for next Monday and Tuesday, September 12 and 13. John Gilbert has the title role, being ably supported by Renee Adoree and Estelle Taylor.

Miss Mary Chester of St. Louis made G. H. Whelan send for flowers to decorate the county clerk's office before she would go through the wedding ceremony.

THE UNITED STATES VERSUS THE WORLD

From the vantage point of the United States Legation at Lisbon, where it was my privilege to serve for ten years as Minister to Portugal, says Colonel Thomas H. Birch, and through intimate association with diplomats and citizens of numerous foreign nations, I acquired an accentuated appreciation of this great country of ours.

From a humble beginning we have grown until we now have a combined area of 3,743,540 square miles. Our total population exceeds 120,000,000 prosperous, hard-working, contented people.

In natural resources the United States is today the richest country in the world. Its coal, oil, timber and precious metals exist in vast natural stores, and practically every base mineral known to science and commerce is deposited within its boundaries.

Although originally an agricultural country, the presence of this tremendous natural heritage of minerals and timber, together with increased "pressure of population on land," has resulted in gigantic industrial development, until today the United States leads the world in commerce and is one of the greatest merchants on the high seas. Its steel, rubber goods, timber, cotton, machinery, foodstuffs, and numerous other essential commodities go literally to the ends of the earth.

At present we are producing considerably more than one-half of the main industrial output of the world. With less than 6 per cent of the world's land area and less than 7 per cent of the world's population, we are doing more than half of the world's business.

We are producing:

Fifty-five per cent of the world's iron ore.

Fifty-five per cent of the world's pig iron.

Sixty-six per cent of the world's steel.

Fifty-one per cent of the world's copper.

Sixty-two per cent of the world's petroleum.

Forty-three per cent of the world's coal.

Fifty-two per cent of the world's timber output.

Sixty-five per cent of the world's naval stores.

Forty-two per cent of the world's phosphate.

Eighty per cent of the world's sulphur.

Sixty-three per cent of the world's mica.

Sixty-two per cent of the world's lead.

Sixty-four per cent of the world's zinc.

Sixty per cent of the world's talc and soapstone.

Forty-five per cent of the world's barytes.

Forty-five per cent of the world's cotton.

In addition to all this we have:

Eighty-four per cent of all automobiles and motor trucks.

Thirty-four per cent of the world's total railroad mileage.

Fifty-one per cent of the world's ton-mile traffic.

More telephones and radios than all the rest of the globe.

NEGRO HOME-COMING

An event perhaps unique in this country was a recent monster picnic held at Woodland, Georgia, when the white citizens were hosts to the negro population of the community, with an attendance of several thousand people of both races.

It was planned in honor of many negroes who, after being lured to other sections through promise of greater opportunities, had returned to their native state, as well as to those who had remained at home.

Speeches were made by prominent white men and negroes, who stressed the amicable spirit which has characterized the two races in Talbot county. Then the negroes were given a big barbecue, after which field events and a baseball game in which negroes only took part were held.

While this is an isolated instance of its kind, it shows that through understanding and good will the races may co-operate for their mutual benefit. The Woodland picnic may not have been an entirely ideal enterprise, but it is more to be commended than the manifestations of race hatred and intolerance which have been too frequent in the South and elsewhere.

SPANS COLUMBIA RIVER

A new overhead span of telephone cable recently has been completed across the Columbia river, a few miles north of Wenatchee, Washington. This cable, which is of unusual length for telephone spans, carries wires that were formerly open and serves as a link in the new northern transcontinental telephone circuit. The cable is supported by steel towers and is high enough to clear high water navigation.

One of the most highly praised and best patronized pictures of the year, "Don Juan," in which John Barrymore is featured, is coming to the State Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday, September 14 and 15. This picture had a phenomenal run down town at fancy prices. You will now be able to see it at the State at the regular State Theatre prices.

MOTORCYCLE TRAILER IS NEW VEHICLE

The photograph shows Mr. Butchers, owner of the new motorcycle-trailer caravan, camping on the Isle of Man beside his novel outfit. This is a great idea and will be readily taken up by out-of-doors lovers of this country.

PREPARING FOR TOURING TRIPS

Sleeping Shelter is One of Most Important Items to Be Considered.

Never, since the covered-wagon days when our forefathers threaded the trackless wilderness, has any traveler been so much in need of self-reliance as the modern automobile tourist and camper. "Be prepared" should therefore be the motto of every motorist who intends to get fullest enjoyment from his touring trips.

Question of Shelter.

Assuming that the tourist has provided himself with enough suitable clothing, food, bedding and cooking equipment, his next thought is likely to be about a sleeping shelter. It will be found that the outside tent arrangement, consisting of a tent erected on one side of the car so that the car may be used as a dressing room, is satisfactory for all-around conditions. More elaborate equipment, such as sleeping trailers, can, of course, be purchased.

In buying a tent it is best to get one of balloon silk because of the small space this material occupies when it is folded. See that there is provision for keeping out flies and insects, and that there is a good floor. If you are not sure that your tent is waterproof, coat it with some waterproofing agent.

Watch Water Supply.

Take proper care of foodstuffs, and remember, too, that the water you carry must be used not only for drinking and cooking, but also for the cooling system of your car. Special water bags which hold an adequate supply can be obtained.

Last of all, don't weigh down your car with camping articles of unnecessary bulk. Cots, stoves, etc., should be of the most compact type, so that they can be fitted readily into the space your car provides.

Clock Acts as Traffic Cop in Kansas Capital

The alarm clock, faithful servant of the American home, now is being employed as a warning that the business man's automobile has been parked long enough and that it's time to move on.

With a two-hour parking limit in the business section of Topeka, several houses have installed alarm clocks in the offices. At the end of the two hours the alarm rings. A man gets up, hurries out and moves all the automobiles belonging to employees of the company.

The alarm is set up two hours and the performance repeated. So it goes throughout the day. Business houses are using the idea and claim it works to perfection. More and more establishments are reported taking up the move.

Clutch on New Car Apt to Grab More Abruptly

The clutch on a new car is likely to work a little more abruptly than one on a car that has been broken in. The plates on the new clutch take hold so gently during the first stage of clutching that the driver imagines they are not taking hold at all. He may then let the pedal back through its final engagement much too suddenly. When the clutch is older its plates grab a little more. The driver notices the engagement of the clutch taking effect sooner and thus is more careful during the final release of the pedal.

Give Automobile Brakes Most Careful Attention

It will pay motorists to test their brakes every day after taking the car out of the garage. It isn't being over-cautious to apply them within the first block, whether it is necessary or not, just to determine that nothing has gone wrong since the car was last used. It may mean the difference between life and death some day, and the test thus may be regarded as a ramification of the definition of nature's first law of self-preservation.

Striking Color Names

An attempt is being made not only to make the new automobile colors look attractive but to sound attractive as well. The names of some of the colors seen on the cars at the recent automobile shows are: Pyramid and oriole red, coot brown, thrush brown, bluejay blue, mallard green, sea fog gray, channel green, shoal water blue, ocean blue, marine blue, Robin Hood green, Peter Pan blue, faerie red, Buckingham gray, Egyptian red, Haig green, Italian cream, bronville blue, midnight black, maize, fawn, pistachio green, down mist, Dagestan blue, bakam blue, burning bush orange and Ambato green.

Radiator Whistle Gives Warning to the Driver

Your motor always seems to overheat and start boiling the water, if you have the misfortune to have it happen at all, at night when you can't see the thermometer on the radiator, or when, in the daytime, your attention is concentrated on the road or the scenery.

Of course, if you are going slowly in traffic the escaping steam will rise to warn you of trouble, but when you are traveling fast, you may not notice that something is wrong until serious damage has been done. A good way to make an infallible steam indicator is to solder a small whistle to the end of the overflow pipe, as shown in the illustration. Day or night the shrill blast of the whistle blown by the escaping steam will warn you to stop and investigate. A warning signal of this type is particularly valuable if your car is fitted with an automatic or hand-controlled radiator shutter. With the hand-controlled type, the whistle will blow and warn you to open the shutter if you happen to forget it.—Popular Science Monthly.

AUTOMOBILE NOTES

Lindbergh was lucky not to have a back seat driver.

Also, how does the weak tire know you're not carrying a spare?

A reckless motorist always tries to pass everything, including the buck.

Another great need is an automobile that cannot be driven from the back seat.

The modern idea of roughing it is to drive with one window open in a closed car.

However, the quest for plenty of parking space is what built up many a mighty empire.

One of every five persons in the United States owns an automobile, according to a recent estimate.

Cars that claim 90 or more miles an hour could well be advertised: "Will last the owner his lifetime."

Some people take poison, others drown themselves, and still others try to pass another automobile on a blind curve.

The news that there is only one automobile for every three thousand residents of India is mighty good publicity for India.

CALIFORNIA NEWS BRIEFS

Warren R. Porter, 66 years of age, former Lieutenant-Governor of California, and for many years president of the Pajaro Valley National Bank in Watsonville, died at his home at Watsonville last week.

United States senators and representatives in Congress and public organizations of San Francisco will conduct a determined drive to have this city named as the "home port" of the Pacific fleet if a resolution passed by the Board of Supervisors last week bears fruit.

Cedarville, Modoc County, boasts that Emma Ennis, 10, is the youngest high school freshman in California. She will enroll in the Surprise Valley Union High School next month.

A seven-year-old girl established a mountain-climbing record at Red Bluff when she achieved the pinnacle of Mount Lassen, starting the rise from Manazila Lake, and climbing 4,000 feet in five and one-half hours.

An army of millions of crickets, which seriously interfered with the main intersection's traffic officer and kept ladies gingerly side-stepping on the walks, invaded Brawley last week. The screechers gathered under arc lights inches deep while store proprietors swept them out of entrances by the bucketful and burned them in the street. No damage to vegetation was reported.

A miniature re-enacting of the mania of gold rush days occurred on the ranch of Jeff Fruit on Amsterdam road, Merced, when a workman found gold dust sticking to a drill used in boring a well on the ranch when he lifted it to be sharpened. Now Fruit is debating the question, "Shall it be well or gold mine?" with all indications pointing to the latter. The well site is on the north bank of the Merced river.

September will be a month of conventions in Santa Cruz. The Builders' Exchange will be held on September 3, 4 and 5; the Native Sons of the Golden West Admission Day celebration, September 9, 10 and 11; the Pacific Coast Gas Associaton, September 12 to 17, and the State Retail Growers, September 25 to 28.

Good road conditions are attracting more motorists to Yosemite for this season of the year from other States than ever before. Such is the opinion of Park Superintendent W. B. Lewis. "During the month of July," stated Superintendent Lewis, "1,544 automobiles from forty-six States, the District of Columbia, Canada, British Columbia, Hawaii and Panama entered the Yosemite National Park."

George Messer, 32, San Francisco mechanic, was recently officially recogized by the State government as the tallest man in California. He stands 6 feet 9½ inches in his stocking feet and weighs 220 pounds. Directors of the California State Fair closed the entry list in the expositon contest to select the State's altitude champion and gave Messer first place. Second honors went to E. E. Dickey of Hollywood, whose height is 6 feet 8½ inches. Messer is a native son and was born at Tracy, San Joaquin County.

Oil production for the San Joaquin Valley for July totaled 4,887,445 barrels, according to figures compiled by the American Petroleum Institute's Pacific Coast office. This production came from 6,159 wells now on the producing list. The daily averages for the month was 158,659 barrels as against 160,441 barrels for the month of June. This is a decrease of 1,782 barrels daily, indicating that the attempt of the companies to hold down production to relieve the storage conditions is bearing fruit.

Dr. N. P. Barbour, of Stockton, major in the medical corps of the California National Guard and commanding officer of the medical detachment of the 143rd Field Artillery, has been ordered to Carlisle Barracks, Pennsylvania, for a six-weeks' course of intensive training at the army medical field service school. Dr. Barbour is the only California officer honored with such a call. California is apportioned one medical officer a year at the school.

Jail sentences imposed on members of California National Guard companies for breaches of military or civil regulatons as the result of peacetime trials before summary court are binding and must be served, just as if they were meted out by a civil court to a citizen. This is the holding of Attorney General Webb in an opinion to District Attorney Norby of Yuba County. Norby questioned such a sentence, believing it in violation of the State constitution.

With Assemblyman Frank L. Coombs of Napa as "unofficial chaperon," two special trains carrying 800 Legionnaires left California last week for the second doughboy invasion of Paris, the American Legion convention.

Expenditures on new roads in California this year, it is estimated, will exceed the high total of any of the eleven States in Western America, according to an analysis of estimated revenues for road purposes tabulated for Martin Madsen, president of the Madsen Iron Works, San Francisco. At the end of the fiscal year, in June, 1928, it has been reckoned that $180,000,000 will have been spent on new highways and the maintenance of existing arteries by the States of California, Washington, Oregon, Nevada, New Mexico, Idaho, Arizona, Colorado, Montana, Utah and Wyoming.

Substantiating her claim to being the fastest-growing metropolis in the world, the populaton of Los Angeles, which at the time of the 1920 Federal census stood at 576,673, is now 1,242,700.

More than 1,200 delegates and guests are expected to attend the eighth annual convention of the State Builders Echange which will be held at Santa Cruz this week. The arrangements for the convention and outing being made by a committee of the San Francisco Builders Exchange.

Two hundred and twenty city blocks of developed suburban property will be added to Bakersfield area soon, if annexation plans which are being completed now are indorsed by qualified voters during an annexation election to be held in the district during the early part of November.

A complete report of property valuation embracing every parcel of land in the city of San Francisco, and totaling $891,746,210 was placed on file last week in the office of Assessor Russel L. Wolden. The report is the result of a year's survey conducted by James G. Stafford, and cost approximately $67,000. It shows that a total of 177,000 pieces of property were checked and valued for taxation purposes.

Whether or not the soil, water and climate of Kern County is adapted to producton of shrub rubber soon may be determined, as the result of tests that have been conducted during the last four years at the United States Experimental Farm at Shafter, according to Wolford B. Camp, agronomist, in charge, and if the experiments prove successful, thousands of acres of heretofore useless safe-brush lands in Kern County can be reclaimed to highly productive purposes, and an industry scarcely second in its importance to petroleum may be established.

California's habit of shattering her own records will again be stressed when total ice cream sales in this State for 1927 are finally tabulated, it was predicted by D. M. Dorman, president of California Dairies, Inc., of Los Angeles. Predictons made early in the current year set an increase of 10 per cent in State consumption compared with 1926, when more than 10,000,000 gallons, retailing at nearly $20,000,000, were required to satisfy the Sunshine State's 4,500,000 residents.

Caliente Canyon district, thirty-five miles east of Bakerfield, now is witnessing the resumption of an important scale of gold and silver mining operations. The Zenda Company has started to operate its 200-ton mill under the direction of Frank Bewley, and it is believed there is sufficient tonnage of low-grade ore to keep it running indefinitely. The company has 900 acres in the Amalie district, fifteen miles northeast of Caliente, and also is doing extensive development work on the Calico mine in the Panamint area, east of Mojave.

Information has been given out at Mariposa, Mariposa county, that a ten-stamp mill is to be built on the Vanderbilt gold mining claim in the Darrah district. Development work has been in progress on this claim for the past two years and is reported that a shute of fine ore has been encountered.

That he will introduce his bill in the December session of Congress, providing for the deeding of 1,200 acres of forest lands in the Calaveras Big Trees to the State of California, was expressed in Stockton last week by Congressman Harry L. Englebright of the First Congressional District of California. The bill was introduced and passed in the last session but due to a last-minute rush, did not make its way though the Senate. The bill was indorsed by the forestry service, State Park Associaton and the Calaveras Grove Association which was organized last year to have the Calaveras Big Trees set aside as a public park. Another bill he will introduce provides for the removal of income tax on dividends derived from gold corporations.

Franklin Guest Smith of Redlands was last week nominated by United States Senator Samuel Shortridge to the Secretary of War as his principal selection from California to the United States Military Academy class entering West Point in July, 1928. His selection must be approved by the Secretary of War before the candidate is accepted at the academy.

San Francisco's new traffic ordinance, recommended by Dr. Miller McClintock after a detailed survey under auspices of the San Francisco Traffic Survey Committee, was unanimously passed last week by the Board of Supervisors. It will become effective, for the future guidance of motorists and pedestrials, as soon as the remaining formalities of printing and final passage are completed—a matter of a few weeks.

Among the St. Helena exhibits at the Napa County Fair, held last week, there is a four-legged chicken that was raised by S. Barberi of St. Helena. The chicken is about eight months old, and forms a freak exhibit at the fair.

With the appropriation of a $25,000 purse by the town of Capitola for the winners of a twenty-two mile swim from Capitola-by-the-Sea to Monterey, one of the biggest water marathons in history is expected. The event has been scheduled for next New Year's Day. Rules for the swim are now being organized at Capitola and it is expected that entry blanks will be available in another month. The contest will be open to both men and women and officials there predict that some of the world's best swimmers will come to Capitola to compete in in the New Year's marathon.

"What is my present car worth in trade?"

OCCASIONALLY you hear a car owner say: "I'm going to buy such and such a new car because the dealer has offered me the best deal on my present car."

But without understanding the economics of trade-in transactions, you cannot be sure that the largest allowance offered means the best deal for you.

These are basic facts:

1 Your present car has only one fundamental basis of value; i. e., what the dealer who accepts it in trade can get for it in the used car market.

2 Your present car has seemingly different values because competitive dealers are bidding to sell you a new car.

3 The largest allowance offered is not necessarily the best deal for you. Sometimes it is; sometimes it is not.

4 An excessive allowance may mean that you are paying an excessive price for the new car in comparison with its real value.

5 First judge the merits of the new car in comparison with its price, including all delivery and finance charges. Then weigh any difference in allowance offered on your present car.

Remember that when you trade-in your present car you are after all making a purchase, not a sale. You are simply applying your present car as a credit toward the purchase price of a new car.

Your Kidneys
Must Function Properly for You to Be Well.

LATE hours, rich foods and stimulating drinks are all hard on our kidneys. If their action becomes sluggish, they do not thoroughly cleanse the blood of poisonous wastes.

Such impurities are apt to make one dull, tired and achy, with often a nagging backache, drowsy headaches and dizziness. A common warning of imperfect kidney action is scanty or burning excretions.

WAYNE B. WHEELER DEAD

Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Salooon League of America, died last Monday at Battle Creek, Mich., death being due to a heart attack following prolonged treatment for kidney trouble, he being at a sanitarium for observation when the end came. His death followed that of his wife's but a few weeks, she having been fatally burned in an oil stove explosion at the Wheeler home, which was the indirect cause of the death of her father. Friends believe Wheeler's death was hastened by grief over the loss of his wife.

More than to any other individual Wayne B. Wheeler is credited with the passing of the eighteenth amendment. He is given that credit by his friends, as well as his enemies. And he made enemies, for as a result of his victory and his methods of obtaining it he has been bitterly denounced by all sorts of people in every section of the United States. But the opposition and threats of his enemies seemed to have never in the least shaken his determination or altered his course and his chosen means of operation.

Wayne B. Wheeler was born November 10, 1869, on his father's farm at Brookfield, Ohio. A few years ago he told a reporter that he acquired his first antagonism to liquor when a drunken farm hand rammed a pitchfork in his leg. On his sober days the farm hand had been an expert hay pitcher and the effects of the liquor on his efficiency had been noted by the boy, who never forgot the change from the good workman to savage assailant, and its cause.

No matter how others may have differed with Wheeler as to his beliefs and methods, they usually paid him the tribute of having the courage of his convictions and of being a hard fighter for the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment.

WHY IS A POST OFFICE?

Is the post office an establishment for making money for Uncle Sam, or is it one for the service of the people regardless of profit?

That is the question Congressman Clyde Kelly of Pennsylvania, who is a member of the House post office committee, wants to see settled. And he wants it settled in favor of service to the public.

For many years it has been the prevailing idea in Congress that the post office department should, as nearly as possible, pay its own way. But at the end of the year it is always found that the expenditures have exceeded receipts by a good many millions. When the postal employees' pay was increased in 1924, it was sought to provide the money by increasing the postal rates, which was done in a manner which has caused great dissatisfaction.

Mr. Kelly contends that the annual deficit is caused by the performance of free service in connection with what are really public welfare projects, such as rural free delivery, county free privileges to weekly newspapers, free department and Congressional mail, special rates to religious, scientific and fraternal publications, free mail for the blind, and the like. He does not object to these free services, but contends that they should be provided for out of the general treasury, instead of increasing postage rates to meet the expense involved.

In this contention Mr. Kelly seems to be on solid ground. No one expects the other departments of the government which are engaged in welfare projects to pay their own way. Users of the mails should pay their just proportion of the cost of the service, and no more. Free services considered to be in the public interest should be paid for by the Treasury Department.

LABOR DAY

The annual observance of Labor Day is a fitting tribute to the worthiness and dignity of those who toil. It is an outward expression of an inward feeling of appreciation for those who perform the homely and necessary tasks of the world.

While Labor Day is primarily the festival of organized labor, it is also dedicated in its larger sense to all who work, whether with hand or brain. Only the idlers and parasites are rightfully excluded from the homage which it pays to those who serve mankind.

Viewed in this light, Labor Day is something more than just another holiday. It is an occasion full of moral and spiritual significance; a day on which to recount the achievements of the race made possible through earnest effort; a day on which to rejoice in the emancipation of the masses; a day for the advancement of the brotherhood of man.

We trust that you enjoyed your Labor Day holiday, and that you gave a thought to the workers, men and women, who have made this country the greatest on the face of the globe.

A ROBIN HOOD PIE

British-American good will was further strengthened recently through the unusual medium of a gooseberry pie. Incidentally, the memory of that beloved rogue, Robin Hood, was revived, as it was in consequence of his reputed fondness for gooseberry pie that the pleasing incident was brought about.

Mansfield, England, situated in Sherwood Forest, where Robin Hood and his merry outlaws are supposed to have roamed some 700 years ago, has retained an ancient custom of cutting a gooseberry pie as a feature of its annual birthday celebration. The town also has a namesake—Mansfield, Massachusetts.

Correspondence between the mayors during the last two years having aroused a spirit of kinship and mutual interest, Mayor Maltby, of Mansfield, England, recently sent a 20-pound gooseberry pie to Mayor Plattner, of Mansfield, Massachusetts, with the suggestion that it be cut in due and ancient form at a public celebration.

This was done in front of the town hall a few days ago in the presence of the populace, and slices were distributed as far as they would go. Speeches were made and the gooseberry pie was hailed as a symbol of friendship between the people and their English cousins.

Thus the Robin Hood legend furnishes another tie to bind the peoples who speak the English tongue—a language which today would sound strange enough to Robin and Little John.

PASSING OF FAMOUS RAM

Ike, famous ram veteran of the World war, is dead. He was not a veteran of the battlefied, but did his bit as head of the White House flock of sheep which kept the lawn cropped during the war, thus releasing the caretakers for service.

If he had been human, Ike probably would have been in the ranks of the dollar-a-year men. He was human in one particular, at that. He had his vices. He was inordinately fond of tobacco. His friends and enemies were evidently numbered according to whether they furnished him with the coveted weed or not. It is said that he evidenced his displeasure in the manner peculiar to rams when he was denied a chew.

Wool from Ike and the rest of his flock was auctioned by the Red Cross during the war and bought by patriotic persons who desired to contribute to its fund, some of it bringing as high as $10,000 a pound.

Since the war the flock has been kept on a Maryland farm near Washington, where Ike peacefully passed away the other day, the victim of old age. A few minutes before he expired he was given a generous chew of tobacco, and he died munching it with evident satisfaction, illustrating that with rams as with men, "the ruling passion is as strong as death."

And we suppose someone will ask: "How much longer do you suppose Ike would have lived had he not been addicted to the use of tobacco?"

TELLING THE WORLD

Records compiled by the American Newspapers Publishers' Association show the enormous amounts spent last year for the advertising of well-known products.

The sum of $4,095,000 was expended in advertising the Chevrolet car alone, which heads the list of big appropriations. Other large expenditures in order of size were: Camel Cigarettes and Prince Albert tobacco, $4,034,000; Postum and Grape Nute, $3,527,000; Listerine, $3,484,00; American Tobacco Company, $3,323,000; Ivory Soap and Crisco, $3,051,000; Dodge automobiles, $3,038,000.

It is reported that these will appear moderate in comparison with the amount to be used in advertising the new Ford cars during the next year.

All if which, in view of the great prosperity experienced by the concerns manufacturing the products named, once more gives a practical illustration of the trite but true saying: "It pays to advertise."

Commercial telephone service has been inaugurated between Paris and Venice. Urgent calls may be booked at triple the normal rate.

RUTH CHATTERTON COMES TO SAN FRANCISCO IN "THE DEVIL'S PLUM TREE"

Ruth Chatterton, famous dramatic star, comes to the Curran Theatre, on September 12, for a brief engagement. This great artist needs no introduction to the theatregoers of Northern California. Most of them have seen her at one time or another, and always with admiration for her charming personality and great artistry. Miss Chatterton, who is now under the management of Homer Curran, will be seen in "The Devil's Plum Tree," a new play from the pen of John Colton, the author of "Rain" and "The Shanghai Gesture," and other stage successes.

Miss Chatterton will portray a young Croatian mountain girl of the fifteenth century, a creature of wild, unbridled passions and strange impulses. The performance at the Curran will be the first presentation on any stage of the English version of this drama, which is founded upon an Hungarian play now the rage of Vienna and other large cities of Europe.

The producers have surrounded Miss Chatterton with an unusually fine cast and among the players are Kenneth Thomson, Edward Leiter, Ivis Goulding, Montague Shaw and others of equal importance. They have also taken advantage of the picturesque locale and period and have given the play a production that is at once unique and beautiful.

Italians want to rename Mont Blanc in honor of Mussolini, but they might have chosen Vesuvius or Aetna with more appropriateness.

Naturally Captain Courtney had trouble in inducing his seaplane, the Whale, to rise from the water.

With President Coolidge's ten-gallon hat out of the ring there will be ample room for the others.

There are now over eighteen million telephones in the United States.

Colma News Notes

James Casey left today to spend the week end at the Sacramento State Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bauer motored to San Jose Monday and spent an enjoyable day there.

Members of the Colma Gun Club bagged three deer over the holidays at the club headquarters at Booneville.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Merlo and Mr. and Mrs. L. Nava and family attended the State Fair at Sacramento over the Labor day holiadys.

Miss Jennie Johns, of Lawndale, has returned home from her visit to her aunt, Mrs. A. Cahn, in San Francisco. Mrs. Cahn had recently moved to San Francisco from Crockett.

Miss Olga Ottoboni, of Lawndale, and Miss Mae Farasich, of Alameda, had an enjoyable trip to Sacramento on the steamer "Delta King," where they spent a few days taking in the State Fair.

No meeting of the Colma Chamber of Commerce will be held this Friday night, as it falls on Admission Day.

Cauliflower is just entering the market at Colma. Lettuce is plentiful and good, but the price is very poor.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Casey and Jerry Sweeney left Thursday on a trip to Tiajuana. They will be back within a week.

George E. Farley returned Thursday to the home of his daughter, Mrs. C. T. Worst, after a two weeks stay with relatives in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Schenone, of Bismarck street, was married to Mr. G. Peradi, of the same street, Sunday at a very quiet wedding.

The Colma-Vista Grande Aerie, No. 1848, F. O. E. drum corps will hold a whist next Wednesday evening, September 14, in the Daly City Auditorium. The members of this corps, organized over sixteen years ago, deserve support, and their many friends are urged to attend.

Mrs. A. Lagomarsino underwent a minor operation Tuesday at St. Mary's hospital. She left Wednesday for Sacramento, where she will spend a week recuperating.

The Girls' Club of Colma will hold a meeting next Thursday evening, September 15, at the home of Mrs. M. P. Henderson. This will be their first get-together after the vacation.

On next Thursday evening, September 15, the ladies of Holy Angels' church will hold a benefit whist in the church hall. Mrs. M. Grady is in charge of the event and has worked hard for its success. A large attendance and good game is promised.

A switching engine backed off the track at Colma just opposite the depot last Wednesday morning. A wrecking train from the Bayshore yards, after a little dexterious use of its crane, adjusted matters to everyone's satisfaction and things proceeded as usual by 1 p. m.

Miss Emily Bauer, of Colma, spent the week end with Miss Ethel Johns, of Woodlawn Cemetery, Lawndale. On Admission day, Mr. and Mrs. R. Johns and daughters Dorothy and Ethel and Emily Bauer motored to Alum Rock, where an enjoyable day was spent. The weather was very warm and dancing and amusements were enjoyed by all.

Very little excitement has been aroused by the coming annexation election in Colma. All of its backers feel sure that it will pass and no active opposition has appeared as yet. This is the first time any issue for official governing of Colma has come to a ballot, and Colma should take a big step forward between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m. on October 8, in the Jefferson Hall.

Walter Jones, aged 19, who confessed to burglarizing an oil station at Mission and School streets, Colma, on the morning of August 22, was granted probation for one year when he appeared before Superior Judge George H. Buck at Redwood City last Saturday morning. Jones entered a plea of guilty to second degree burglary. He stole $52.50 from the oil station, and was arrested at his home in San Francisco the day following the crime.

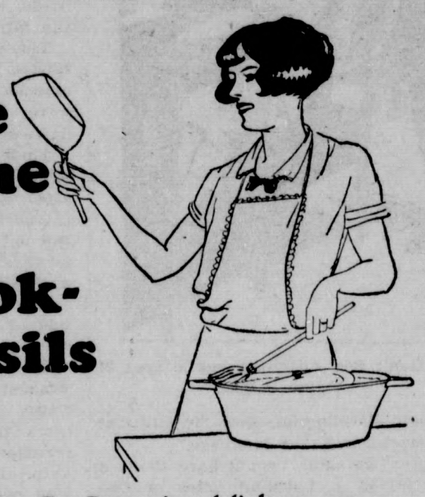
A blue gas flame keeps your cooking utensils clean



A perfectly working Gas Range is a delight to use.

But at times, food boiling over or dust drawn in through the air mixers will carbonize and unless the burners are cleaned these particles will close the holes or ports of the burners. The result is a yellow flame or a "popping" noise when you turn off the gas. This is improper combustion.

The burners of your Gas Range are easily removed and should be cleaned each month to insure perfect combustion and cleanliness. Merely boil the burners in a solution of lye water or caustic soda until they are thoroughly clean.

You'll find it easy to keep your Gas Range as clean as any other piece of furniture in the house. The range will operate perfectly. It will last longer. You'll enjoy its speed, cleanliness and the ease of cooking with Gas — just as thousands of other women are doing today.

LABOR DAY SERMON BY LOCAL PASTOR

Men are prone to delude themselves in confounding their ways with those of God. They seek wealth for the alleviation of poverty, enormous fortunes for the schools of arts and science. Vast and intricate systems of sociology for social ills. They impose laws and decrees on the multitude to secure morality. Still with all their efforts poverty in many lands is most severe. Discontent ripens into rebellion, and their elaborate systems, like houses of cards, collapse at the first breath of opposition.

How different has been the story of God's chosen friends, the Saints of all lands. Placing all their hope, their trust, their reliance in God, taking literally very often His injunctions, "Leave all things and follow Me," they have renewed the face of the earth. They cleared the forests, built towns and cities, and the Cathedrals of Europe, the schools, the hospitals, and the universities the world over. They sought first in all things the Kingdon of God, and all these other things were added unto them.

During the period at the close of the twelfth century, the social condition of Europe was strangely much like that of America today. There was an abundant and widespread wealth existing side by side with a degraded poverty—a poverty that robbed men not only of their physical but even of their spiritual wealth. The beggers were the despised outcasts, the rich were the favored lords of creation. The rich were despots and the poor banditti. Wealth and luxury for the one and the desire of such for the others had so engrossed men's minds that spiritual things were entirely lost sight of.

Then came St. Francis. Seeking only to restore the kingdom of God in the hearts of men, he re-established peace and order throughout the world. The most human of Saints, he despised all worldly gain. Taking as his hysterical bride the Lady Poverty, he dubbed himself the troubadour of God. He cast aside his wealth, his social standing, even his name, and dressed in the brown tunic and white girdle he tramped the highways of Italy. He preached to men the happiness of life free from the enthralment of possessions. He taught to men the beauty of the world of God around them. For the first time they saw the might of the Creator in the sunrise. He bade the peasants laugh their way to Heaven—to lift their sullen eyes from the dust that they might gaze at the skies. His laughter and song brought the shining light of faith to the poor of Christ.

How greatly is not the teaching of Christ as exemplified by St. Francis needed in our land today! Men striving with every power and faculty that is theirs to accumulate the goods of this world; discontent slowly but surely dividing the toilers into a class conscious group that are seeking to destroy a social system that for many of them has become a force of oppression. Impatient of any restraint on their passions or desires, they are sacrificing thousands of homes to the mills of divorce. Filled with the idea that even the most trusted of public servants will sell themselves for gold, there has been a loss of respect for law and authority that finds expression in untold numbers of crime. Surely St. Paul's description of the spirit of the world is portrayed in our own times. Life, my friends, is but a preparation for eternity. This present existence is the smallest, by far, of the long ages for which we were created. Our future depends entirely upon the manner in which we use or abuse this time. How foolish to lose happiness, peace and contentment by vain strife for earthly possessions here, and endanger our peace and happiness for eternity. Let us recall the words of our Lord, "What doth it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul."

Let us set our hearts not on the transitory things of this life, but rather desire and strive for the surer things of eternity.

DALY CITY NOTES

A new 54,000 gallon reinforced concrete water sump has just been completed on Citrus avenue for the extreme southern end of our city.

The members of Liberty Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, were entertained on Thursday at luncheon by Mrs. S. A. Landini at her home on Winchester street.

The new pumping plant designed by Superintendent of Water Works J. J. Kennedy for the schools of the Jefferson district has just been completed and is functioning perfectly.

Two new fire alarm boxes are being installed this week. One will be placed in the new Jefferson Tract and one on Guadalupe avenue between Santa Cruz and San Diego avenues.

Mrs. M. McNally and son Donald motored to Stockton aand return over the holidays. They endured eighteen punctures and blowouts, and a good time was had by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Fuhr, of Palo Alto, spent the week end with Constable and Mrs. S. A. Landini, the parents of Mrs. Fuhr. On Sunday they visited Mrs. C. Houston, of San Leandro, a former resident of Daly City.

Mrs. S. A. Landini attended a luncheon on Wednesday given to the members of the Liberty Bells Club at the home of Mrs. Hope Draper, of Fulton street, San Francisco. Mrs. Landini is president of the club.

Poundmaster George Burwick had a narrow escape last Friday while trying to capture a mad dog. The hound grabbed him by the neck, and only a thick collar saved him from injury. Chief Doyle and Officer Schram shot the dog, releasing Mr. Burwick from an embarrassing position. A ruined coat was the only damage.

Mrs. Owens, president of the San Mateo County P. T. A. Federation, installed the new officers of the Crocker-Pershing P. T. A. on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. H. McKee, of Evergreen avenue. The new officers are: Mrs. H. McKee, president; Mrs. L. Thompsitt, vice-president; Mrs. J. Jordan, secretary; Mrs. R. Abbott, treasurer; Mrs. S. A. Landini, historian.

Crocker-Pershing P. T. A. is making arrangements to secure the Company No. 4, Daly City Volunteer Fire Department hall for its meetings, as the Crocker school is too crowded for use at present.

During the past week the annual auditing of all the city books has been taking place. All checked out well and our officials still retain their unblighted reputation, although it is whispered that one came out 15 cents over.

The annual convention of the Funeral Directors' Association of California was held from August 29 to September 2 at Hotel Whitcomb, San Francisco. Mrs. Luella D. Pepper, of the W. C. Lasswell undertaking parlors, was present at every session. In addition she conducted a three and one-half hour demonstration and lecture on plastic surgery which was acclaimed as the best presentation of the subject ever made at any state convention. Mrs. Pepper is the youngest licensed undertaker in the state and the youngest member of the association.

CHRYSLER "72" EMBODIES NEW FEATURES

In a public statement issued this week Walter P. Chrysler, motor car manufacturer, announced an entirely new model—the "72." A new motor with a counter-balanced crankshaft, a larger bore and stroke, which produces 75 horsepower and is capable of maintaining a speed of 72 miles or more per hour is the outstanding feature. Ten inches have been added to the frame, which gives the new car an appearance that was not found in the old models. Great care has been shown in the selection of interior decorations and fittings. Beautiful mohair covers the deeply upholstered form-fitting seats, in a 2-tone color effect—and a silver metal pull that is a part of the arm rest adds to the complete comfort found in the new cars. The picture in the upper left corner is that of the new Crown sedan—in the lower right corner is the new four-pasenger coupe, which is one of the most striking models of the "72" line. (Center) is a head-on view of the new Chrysler radiator and the new full drum headlights mounted on nickled posts. The picture in the upper right corner shows the housing which covers the blocks of live rubber in which all the spring shackles are set. This feature greatly improves the riding qualities of the car. The lower left corner shows a picture of the new factory-built bumper, which has been designed not only to protect the rear end of the car, but to improve its appearance by following the lines of the spare tire.

—We are now displaying in our show rooms the new "52," "62" and "72" Chrysler. You are invited to come in and look them over. You'll be welcome, whether you buy or not.
—We also have a few excellent buys in high-grade 1927 second-hand Chryslers.

Americans Use More Electricity Nowadays

The ordinary daily life of the average American is growing more electrical every year. In 1925 the average home in this country used 365 kilowatt-hours of electrical current or about enough in a day to operate 20 ordinary house lamps one hour. In 1926 the consumption had grown to 400 kilowatt-hours per family, an increase of about 10 per cent. The rates throughout the land experienced a slight decrease so that even though people used one-tenth more electricity, the average family bill for the year 1926 was only $29.24 as compared with $27.89 the year before. These statistics are the result of a nation-wide survey made by Electrical Merchandising.

The Green Cloak

By YORKE DAVIS

WNU Service. Copyright, 1926

STORY FROM THE START

Dr. Ronald McAlister, psychologist, undertakes to solve the mystery of the murder of a recluse, Henry Morgan. The dead man's papers reveal that he had been in New Zealand, where McAlister had lived in his youth. Will Harvey testifies to seeing a woman in a green cloak at the Morgan home the night of the murder. Doctor McAlister is asked to see a young woman patient in a hospital. In her delirium she mutters in a strange language which only McAlister understands. He suspects she may know something of the murder. A carefully hidden map is discovered by McAlister and Assistant District Attorney Ashton in Morgan's home. While they are searching a young woman enters the house in the darkness and escapes, leaving behind a green cloak. In response to an advertisement of the finding of a green cloak, a young woman, giving her name as Jane Perkins, housemaid at The Meredith, claims it. McAlister takes two laboratory instruments to The Meredith for an undisclosed purpose. The head waiter, Wilkins, admits Jane Perkins is employed at the hotel.

"I was sent up here to do up the bedrooms, sir," she said. "Was there any mistake about it, sir?"

I realized now how "face" and "nice" had suggested a rhyme to Harvey. She pronounced the word, "mistike," in the vilest cockney.

"No, it's quite right," said I. "Come in."

Doctor McAlister let her go straight through into the bedrooms with no more than a glance at her, and a nod in her general direction.

"Well," he said, "how about it? Does the resemblance strike you?"

"I don't think it would have struck me had I not been looking for it. But I imagine if we could get silhouettes of those two faces and put them side by side, they'd look a good deal alike."

He looked at me rather oddly, turned away and paced the length of the room a couple of times. It was one of his incongruous and unexpected characteristics that he liked to whistle or hum popular tunes to himself when he was thinking in an abstracted way. He began to do it now, though it was no popular tune which his fancy alighted on; indeed, it took me a minute or two to identify the queer, chanting cadence which he hummed over and over again. I did not identify it, in fact, until he left off humming and began to sing, and then the guttural words he used gave me the clue. It was that ghastly death chant we had heard the girl in the hospital droning and mumbling to herself.

Presently he strode over to the mantelpiece. There was a large ornamental, narrow-throated vase at the end of it, and the doctor began tapping idly enough upon the side of it with a little pearl-handled pocket knife. I turned round in some surprise.

"That sounds as if it were full of water," said I.

"It is."

"Well, who in the world can ever have thought of putting water in that vase?"

"Who, indeed?" he said.—"Oh, look here, will you, Phelps? I've dropped my knife into it."

It was curiously unlike him to do an idle, clumsy thing like that, quite as unnatural as that the vase, which had never held a flower, should be full of water. But suddenly something in his face told me that the thing he had done was part of a carefully calculated trick.

The next moment he called out, "Perkins—"

"Yes, sir," came the chambermaid's voice from the next room. "Coming, sir."

As she entered the room he turned to her and indicated the vase. "I've just dropped my penknife in there," he said, "and my hand is too big to go in through the throat of it. Do you think you can fish it out for me?"

"My hand isn't as small as some, sir," she said with fat good humor, "but, anyway, I can try."

"Hold on!" the doctor cried as she moved her hand toward the vase. "The thing is full of water. You'll get your sleeve wet."

I was standing close by waiting to see what would happen, still utterly at a loss for a guess as to the doctor's purpose.

The girl slipped back her sleeve and plunged her arm into the vase.

And I, unable to believe what my eyes had seen, clutched the doctor's shoulder and stared, astounded, into his thoughtful face. For high up on the girl's forearm, just inside the elbow, was a tattoo mark in red and blue—a mark that I had not forgotten.

CHAPTER VII

It was fortunate that she did not once look into my astonished face, because for the first few moments I had no control of it at all, and to any eye, even a stupid one, it would have betrayed strange matters. At first I simply stared at that mysterious little tattoo mark in red and blue; it seemed as if I could not pull my eyes away from it. But at last, rubbing my hands over them, I looked up at the doctor, astonished, questioning, incredulous, and yet convinced.

Of any such momentary turmoil his own face showed absolutely no sign. It was calm, almost to the edge of indifference, but his bright old eyes met mine for just an instant with a flashing look that admonished me of the necessity for self-control.

I pulled myself together, turned away for just the space of one deeply indrawn breath, then turned back again for a look at the girl. She was bending over the vase, her hand plunged down to the bottom of it, where she was fishing about for the doctor's knife. She was evidently a good-humored sort of person, easily pleased. The doctor's pretended mishap and her own efforts to retrieve it, seemed to be providing her with genuine amusement. She smiled and giggled and chattered all the while she was groping around for the knife, and uttered a triumphant exclamation when she found it.

All of that I barely saw, for I was searching, too, searching her face with a concentrated gaze that would have astonished her had she encountered it. As I looked, in the light of my new knowledge of her, the physical identity of her features with those of the wild girl became steadily more apparent, until I was forced to marvel at my previous blindness to it. Physically the face was the same; but everything of bone and flesh, every infinitely subtle muscular strain or relaxation about lip, eyelid and brow, everything which makes of the human face a window through which the soul looks out—all of that was different. Her movements were different. Sensory and motor nerves must be keyed to an altogether different pitch. The deep, stable color in her cheeks told of a pulse that beat at an entirely different rhythm. I remembered the poise of her body the last time we had stood face to face with her there in Henry Morgan's study, her attitude of frozen alertness, the deep breath drawn in through the dilated nostrils. She had caught our scent then and, recognizing it as something strange and perilous, had fled like a shadow.

The doctor was standing close beside her, and now again he began humming the weird cadence of the death chant which I had heard for the first time from the girl's own lips. He hummed it through once in a reminiscent sort of way, and then began singing the words.

The girl looked up at him and burst into a peal of laughter.

He stopped abruptly. "What's the matter?" he asked.

"I beg pawdon, I'm sure," she said. "I couldn't help laughin'. That was such a funny lot of noises."

"Is my singing as bad as that?" he asked good-naturedly.

"Not the singin', sir; the noises that went with it."

"Oh, you mean the language. Didn't you ever hear that language before?"

"Do you call that a language sir? Does it mean anything? Do people talk like that?" Then she went on, without a pause, "I beg your pawdon for bein' such a rattle, sir. And here's your knife."

She wiped it on her apron and laid it on the center table; then wiped her hand and started to pull down her sleeve.

"That's a curious bit of tattooing on your arm," the doctor commented. "How did you come by it?"

"I don't know," she replied indifferently. "It's always been there, I fancy; ever since I was too small to remember anyway. I hope your knife won't get rusty, sir. And I hope you don't mind my laughin' at that bit of song you sang."

"Not a bit," said the doctor. "I don't wonder the language struck you as queer. Yet it was common enough down in the quarter of the world where I was born."

"And where might that be, sir?" she asked.

"Oh, I meant the South Pacific generally. Where I lived was in New Zealand."

"Fancy now!" she said, obviously pleased. "That's where I come from

"I Don't See Anything but a Spot of Yellow Light."

myself—Wellington, New Zealand, but I never heard that language."

"No," he said; "you'd have to go a matter of a thousand miles or two from Wellington to hear that; it's Maori."

"I never heard of him. Is that all, sir? Shall I do up the rooms?"

He nodded; but as she turned to leave the room he called her back.

"You're rather near-sighted, aren't you, Perkins?" he said.

"Oh, no, sir; quite to the contrary, in fact. I can see farther than most people."

"Did you ever have your eyes tested?"

"Measured for glasses, do you mean, sir?" she asked. "No, sir. I sha'n't never come to them."

"Sit down in that chair a minute," said the doctor, with an easy assumption of authority. "No, not that one; this big chair here. I want to see if your eyes are as good as you think they are."

The chair he indicated, and in which she rather reluctantly seated herself was deep and soft and heavily upholstered. Neither the doctor nor I enjoyed sitting in it, however, because the curve at the back thrust one's head forward at an unnatural angle.

"Lean back," commented the doctor, "all the way—so."

When she was seated to his satisfaction, he wheeled the chair around with its back to the table, and then adjusted the powerful electric reading lamp so that it shed a beam horizontally above the girl's head.

She surveyed these preparations a little uneasily. "It's like having a tooth pulled," she said.

"Not a bit," said the doctor cheerfully. "It's not going to hurt. I only want you to look into this little mirror and tell me what you see."

He held it up before her eyes as he spoke. It was circular, slightly concave and was adjusted upon a long ivory handle. He held it above her head so that she had to strain her eyes upward to see it at all, and at such an angle that it reflected the light of the reading lamp straight into her eyes.

"I don't see anything at all but a spot of yellow light."

"You only see one?" questioned the doctor.

He pulled out his watch and glanced at it. "Don't mind what I'm doing," he admonished her. "Look steadily at the little mirror. Let me know how long it is before you begin to see two of those spots."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Famed in History as Warrior and Builder

Among the most important monarchs who governed a mighty civilization centuries before Athens came into fame was Seti I, a great warrior and a great builder, who ruled Egypt not long after the death of Tut-ankh-amen. Rameses I, founder of the nineteenth dynasty of Egypt, ruled only two years and was then succeeded by his son, Seti I. The young ruler took up the task bequeathed to him by his father of leading his conquering armies into Asia. He marched to Lebanon and compelled the Syrian princes to cut down some of the famous cedars for his triumph. He overran the Philistine country, marched through Palestine and shattered the Amorites. He also had conflict with the Hittites of Asia Minor, but little is known of his wars with them. Seti's military achievements, however, were not as great as his building ability. His temple at Abydos and his galleried tomb in the Valley of the Tombs of the Kings stand out as among the most amazing architectural triumphs devised by mind of man.—Detroit News.

THE TREE TOADS

Early one morning the fairies invited the tree toads to have luncheon with them in the old grove where they were so apt to give their parties.

They Were Sitting Around.

The tree toads had accepted and the day had arrived for the luncheon.

And, as a special honor, because they had been invited to the fairies' luncheon party, the tree toads tried to look their best, too.

They asked the dewdrops if they could wash their little faces in their rare water.

Now when the fairies saw the tree toads, and when the tree toads saw the fairies, they all gasped.

The tree toads had never seen the fairies looking so lovely. They wore dresses of very soft green which were decorated with little purple daisies.

Their wands matched, and their wings were the color of soft, pale green, too.

And they were sitting around in the wooded grove on ferns and mossy patches of ground when the tree toads arrived.

But the tree toads gave the fairies just as much of a surprise, for they wore green suits, too.

They looked quite noble, having washed their faces with magic dewdrops, and they wore green spectacles made out of leaves with holes, to make them look wise.

In addition to all this they carried green sticks made out of young trees, and they arrived in an old wagon made out of the root of a tree.

The wagon was drawn by the green lizard family.

First got out Grandpa and Grandma Tree Toad, and then all the younger toads hopped out after.

The luncheon began of delicious things made out of the best of woodland foods, and last of all came the green woodland ice cream.

But when the ice cream came along, what should be seen on top of it but a little, tiny old man made out of ice cream, too.

How the tree toads did scream with delight.

"What's your name?" they cried.

"I'm the little man of the ice cream freezer. Every time ice cream is made in one of the freezers where I live, I come out on top of the ice cream dressed all up as ice cream, too."

Grandpa and Grandma Tree Toad.

"But you look good to eat," said one of the toad children.

"That's what I'm here for," and he looked very happy and pleased about it.

"And next time there's ice cream I'll be here again."

"Yes," said the Fairy Queen. "We are going to have a hopping game, and the one who does the greatest number of queer hops will eat the little ice cream man!"

And little Harvey Hop Tree Toad—quite a shy little fellow—won the prize and ate the ice cream man, but all the toads had plenty to refresh them after their hopping match.

Should an Arab rider be thrown from his horse and hurt, this faithful four-footed friend will stay patiently by his side until he is sufficiently recovered to mount again.

The Arab boys are used to horses from their earliest days, and when they are old enough they attend riding schools and are trained to be fearless riders.

Mistaken Identity

Mother (after visitor had gone)—You dreadful boy! You stuck your tongue out at the minister. Now, don't deny it! I saw you as I entered the room.

Bobby—Why, mother, I just showed it to him. He said: "Little man, how do you feel?" and I thought he was a doctor.

DAY IS MORE THAN RESPITE FROM TOIL

Labor's Holiday Has Special Significance.

By WILLIAM GREEN,
President A. F. of L.

President William Green believes Labor day ought to be observed as labor's day, and not just like any other holiday. He believes this day should be particularly a day for labor, that celebrations should have outstanding labor characteristics.

What President Green believes is that Labor day is something greater and deeper and more sincere than a mere merry-making time. It is more serious that a roller-coaster day.

Says President Green:

"Do the men and women of labor intend that Labor day be observed as a mere holiday or used for personal convenience, or have they considered or are they considering how best they may make it enthusiastically demonstrative of labor's unity, labor's solidarity, labor's hopes, aims, purposes, achievements?

William Green.

"Labor day belongs to the working people of America. It is for the men and women of labor to demonstrate year after year its value and significance. Those outside the labor movement are prone to a considerable degree to test its strength and virility by the way in which Labor day is observed. Labor day was made a national institution by the workers who preceded you. You owe it to them and to the future to do your part in perpetuating this institution by appropriate celebration.

"The first Monday of September of each year the factory whistles are silent, the mining shafts are closed down, the blacksmith's anvil is cold, the machinist's lathe is quiet—labor takes a holiday. And not only organized labor but all labor, for the beneficent laws the enactment of which is secured through the efforts of organized labor, affect alike the organized and the unorganized; those who stand shoulder to shoulder with their fellows and those who travel their own road careless of whether it parallels the pathway of their fellow workers.

"Some of the labor organizations have abandoned regular labor demonstrations, parades, meetings, addresses, in the belief that such expenditure of time, effort and money is wasteful. This is a serious mistake. Men and women marching shoulder to shoulder typify impressively the purposes and unity of the labor movement. Such parades are an educational avenue by which public thought and opinion may be more forcefully directed to the consideration of the aspirations, hopes and principles of the labor movement.

"It must not be forgotten that no human movement remains stationary. The labor movement must either go forward, or it must lag backward. The spirit of fellowship is the life of the labor movement. All life must be nourished, or it dies. The yearly gathering on Labor day, the contact of worker with worker, the enthusiasm of all working together in a demonstration of the power and might of labor as a civic as well as an economic force, stimulates fellowship, brotherhood, good will; renews inspiration; gives a deeper insight into the meaning and scope of the labor movement.

"It is my earnest hope that in every city, town and hamlet in our broad land, Labor day will always be an epoch-making day, one long to be remembered."

NEWS NOTES OF PERSONAL INTEREST

By MARC WORST

Mrs. Tendler is recovering from a recent illness.

Irene Smith spent the holidays with friends in San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Cobleigh and family, of Peoria street, spent Monday at Los Gatos.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Emerson and son John spent the week end at their cabin at Lompico.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Matzek and family, of 220 Los Olivos avenue, moved to San Francisco Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. McKee and son Leonard, of Evergreen avenue, spent the holidays at Blue Lakes, in Lake county.

Mayor H. H. Smith and Horace Fellows returned Wednesday from a hunting trip in the northern part of the state.

The Sewing Club of the Woodrow Wilson-Vista Grande P. T. A. will meet at the home of Mrs. F. Secor, 216 Los Olivos avenue, Thurssday, September 15.

Mrs. Camilio, of 28 Knowles avenue, moved to San Francisco last Monday.

The Royal Neigbors whist will be held Tuesday, September 13, at the Eagles' Hall.

Mr. Miller and sons John and Leonard, with H. H. Smith, Jr., went to Santa Cruz Saturday.

Daly City was well represented at the whist given at St. Michael's hall, San Francisco, last Wednesday evening.

Walter White and a number of his fishing companions enjoyed a most successful holiday trip to Monterey, where they caught all the fish they desired.

Mrs. H. H. Smith and daughters, Evelyn and Edna, and son, Master George, spent Sunday in Mill Valley, visiting Mr. and Mrs. Younger, who formerly resided in Daly City.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Pavlos spent the Labor Day holidays at the Walters Springs, and report having had a most enjoyable trip and a splendid time during their stay at that popular resort.

The exterior of the home of Trustee A. J. Bodien, on Bellevue avenue, has just received a new coat of a pleasing light brown color paint, trimmed in a darker shade of the same color.

There will be two splendid pictures presented at the State Theatre next Sunday, September 11, Fred Thomson in "Don Mike," and Bert Lytell and Alma Ruebens in "The Gilded Butterfly."

The usual monthly whist of St. Maximus church was held last Tuesday evening in the Daly City Auditorium. Mrs. Steele was in charge of the event, which was successful both socially and financially.

The firemen of Company No. 4, Daly City Volunteer Fire Department, held their regular meeting last Thursday evening in the company hall, as Friday, their usual meeting time, was Admission Day.

May Murray in "Altars of Desire" will be the feature picture at the State Theatre next Friday, September 16. Friday night is also Novelty Nite, one of the most interesting bits of the week.

On Tuesday, September 13, the regular monthly whist of the Woodrow Wilson-Vista Grande Parent-Teachers' Association will be held at the home of Mrs. Falk, 1270 Brunswick street, at 2 p. m. Mrs. Denk will act as chairlady.

St. Maximus church will hold its third annual bazaar on October 20, 21 and 22, in the Daly City Auditorium. A number of whists and dances have been given by the various booths during the past year to raise funds in order to better equip their little warehouse of delights.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Roddenberger. of Templeton avenue, returned Friday from an extended trip to British Columbia. It is learned that their trusty Willys-Knight sedan traveled over 3,000 miles in thirty-three days, during which period they pitched their tent twenty-one times.

A high tension wire broke and fell across the fire alarm system wires last Tuesday at about 2:30 p. m. The resulting short circuit caused the siren to perform somewhat eratically as the troublesome offender swung to and fro. The trouble was corrected shortly, with no damage done.

Peter Dormoy and wife, of 40 Mission Circle, enjoyed a two weeks deer hunt in the Boonville section, returning home August 17. Mr. Dormoy shot a nice forked-horn, weighing about 90 pounds. They also enjoyed a visit with Mrs. H. A. Alberts during their two weeks' stay.

Principal James Ferguson reports that the work in the high school is progressing rapidly and smoothly. The program which was put into operation on the first day of school is being carried out regularly. Mr. Ferguson speaks in the highest terms of the spirit of co-operation which he finds among the students and faculty.

Next Monday night, September 12, bids will be opened for the building of a fence around the high school grounds, and for the construction of the athletic field. Plans and specifications, with blue prints, are on file in the office of Principal James Ferguson, to be consulted by those who are interested in the doing of this work.

The Ladies Auxiliary of Company No. 4, Daly City Volunteer Fire Department, will meet at the home of Mrs. S. A. Landini, on Winchester street, next Thusrsday evening, September 15. ## SENSE AND NONSENSE

By H. H.

VOLUME I FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1927 NUMBER 7

Published in the interests of the people of Daly City and vicinity by H. H. Smith and Employees.

Vic: "I almost drowned last night."
Keith: "And how come?"
Vic: "My pillow slipped, the bed spread and I fell into the spring."

Sign on back of a Ford: "I do not choose to run in 1928."

"This is perfectly stunning," said the victim as he crumpled under the force of the burglar's blackjack.

Keep at it, think it, believe it, and we'll have the best town in California.

Husband: "Dear, will you please turn off the radio?"
Wife: "But it isn't on now, honey; I've been talking to you for the last half hour."

A man's wife is not necessarily an angel because she is always harping on something.

Diner: "I'll have pork chops with fried potatoes, and make the chops lean."
Waiter: "Yes, sir; which way, sir?"

Frosh: "Why do they dig up roads?"
Senior: "To see if they are as rough on the bottom as they are on top."

We could fill this space with invitations for you "to come in and see us," but we take that for granted. That's what we're here for.

The baby that swallows everything should make a good husband when he grows up.

Judge: "Have you a criminal record?"
Victim: "No, we have no phonograph in our home."

He: "Let's go swimming."
She: "I don't swim."
He: "Let's go bathing."
She: "I don't—Oh, shut up!"

Speaking of thankless tasks, did you ever serve on a school board?

A family tree is not worth a darn unless it produces peaches.

When you think of building, think of H. H.

Never throw your mouth into gear until you make sure your brain is turning over.
